SEPA Interns Continuing through the Summer.

The 22 Austin College SEPA interns are continuing their work at area nonprofit organizations. The students and their nonprofit partners launched the summer program with a two-day in early June, led by Carole V. Rylander, CFRE of Rylander and Associates, and Cary Wacker, director of the Center for Community and Regional Development and associate vice president of Institutional Advancement for Austin College. To date, SEPA grant writers have brought in more than $626,000 to the region for projects related to health, arts, and community engagement.

Austin College giving campaign was a success!

Thank you to everyone that helped us end the 2016-17 fiscal year on a high note! Over the past few months, we saw an incredible outpouring of support for the College from established supporters as well as first time donors. These gifts support Austin College students, in addition to standing as an affirmation of the College's work. This means so much for the future of Austin College. Your support helps us provide meaningful impacts in the lives of students over the next year, through scholarships, athletics, and expanded learning opportunities outside the classroom.

Alumni giving participation is also an important metric used by College guidebooks, grant committees, and prospective students. Your renewed support means we can seek top students and win funding for cutting edge classroom experiences.

Thank you again #Roonation!
