

Adjunct Instructor of Public Health

The Austin College Department of Public Health invites applications for the position of part-time Adjunct Instructor of Public Health. Candidates must have PhD or MPH and appropriate coursework, preferably in Social and Behavioral Health or similar discipline. The position begins in August 2024. This position offers the candidate the opportunity to teach one or two courses per semester in the discipline of Social and Behavioral Health, and to gain teaching experience in a supportive Liberal Arts environment.

Austin College is a leading national private liberal arts college located north of Dallas in Sherman, Texas. Founded in 1849, it is the oldest institution of higher education in Texas operating under original charter and name. Recognized nationally for academic excellence in the areas of international education, pre-professional training, and leadership studies, the College provides an academically challenging and lively community of students, staff, and faculty committed to intellectual growth through individual and collaborative endeavors. Austin College (AC) is one of 40 schools profiled in Loren Pope's influential book, Colleges That Change Lives.

Candidates should send the following:

- CV
- copies of graduate transcripts (unofficial are sufficient for the application),
- statement of teaching philosophy, no more than one page
- a diversity and inclusion statement (which must indicate the ways candidates address diversity in their teaching, scholarship, and/or service), no more than one page

Please combine materials into one PDF document and email it to PublicHealthSearch@austincollege.edu

Applications will be reviewed as they are received.

Austin College is an Equal Opportunity Employer that serves a diverse student body and is committed to the same in the hiring process. Applicants must be currently authorized to work in the United States for any employer.